LESSONS TO MY CHILDREN: Simple Life Lessons for Financial Success, Wealth and Abundance
by I. Mark Cohen and Weston D. Burnett on Sale Now

New Book Reveals the Financial Advice Every Parent Should Give Their Children and the Wisdom Children of All Ages Should Follow

Washington, DC (PRWEB) August 5, 2010 – Navigator Wealth Management, LLC, announced the release of LESSONS TO MY CHILDREN: Simple Life Lessons for Financial Success, Wealth and Abundance (Linx; $24.95; ISBN 978-09802118-7-0). LESSONS TO MY CHILDREN illustrates the basics of financial literacy - from budgeting to investing – with real life stories, time tested practices, and easy to understand advice that will help both parent and child take control of their financial futures.

“We’ve found that fewer and fewer parents are passing on the sound advice that children need to develop healthy financial habits and make good choices with their money,” said Navigator Wealth Management CEO and co-author Wes Burnett, “Lessons to My Children is an easy-to-understand compilation of what works – and what doesn’t – gathered from years of helping families manage their money and manage their way out of common money mistakes.”

“This book is for parents and their children alike, whether they are just starting out or just starting over,” said Navigator Wealth Management founder and co-author Mark Cohen, “We see this book as a financial literacy tool for parents to read and share with their children – no matter what their age or stage in life – to give them firm footing on the road to financial success and a stress-free financial life.”

LESSONS TO MY CHILDREN will have an interactive component at: www.LessonsToMyChildren.com – a multimedia website featuring videos, calculators, social media communities, Weekly Wealth Lessons™, an online bookstore, and a timely, information-rich blog designed to help families learn and apply the 11 financial life lessons laid out in the book.
